About the Author

Virginia Woolf

Adeline Virginia Woolf was a prominent English writer and one of the key figures of modernist literature, known for her innovative narrative techniques, such as stream of consciousness, Woolf explored complex themes related to identity, gender, and the human experience. Born in London into a literary family, she began writing at a young age and became a central figure in the Bloomsbury Group, a collective of writers, artists, and intellectuals. She developed her art and went on to publish several novels, including Night and Day (1919), Jacob’s Room (1922), Mrs Dalloway (1925), To the Lighthouse (1927), Orlando (1928), The Waves (1931), and The Years (1937). Mrs Dalloway is one of her best-known works.

Product Description

A Room of One's Own, published in 1929, is an extended essay by Virginia Woolf based on lectures she delivered at Cambridge's Newnham and Girton Colleges in 1928. Woolf explores the societal limitations on women’s creative expression, famously asserting that "a woman must have money and a room of her own if she is to write fiction." Using metaphors, Woolf illustrates the obstacles faced by women writers. This foundational feminist work examines women’s intellectual freedom and the need for independence.
