About the Journal

The South East Asian Review (SEAR) is an interdisciplinary research journal which welcomes papers on any aspect of South East Asian culture, art, archaeology, history, society, religion, language, politics, economy, traditional knowledge, natural and cultural heritage. Since 1976, the goal of the journal has been to disseminate knowledge of the common cultural heritage of India and South East Asia. The journal provides a forum for a broad and diverse group of scholars interested in the study of South East Asia and with a specific thrust on the scholarly works in humanities and social sciences. South East Asian Review journal also publishes Book Reviews relevant to the theme and scope of the journal. The authors and publishers may send their books on South East Asia after contacting the Academic Editor or Managing Editor via email in this regard. The authors or publishers may also suggest potential reviewers to review the title.
