Product Description

The Subjection of Women by John Stuart Mill is a foundational text in the history of feminist thought and gender equality. Its call for the equality of women—in education, marriage, property, and political rights—challenged the deeply entrenched patriarchal norms of 19th-century Europe and continues to be relevant in today's ongoing conversations about gender and equality. Mill's progressive arguments, shaped in part by his partnership with Harriet Taylor Mill, continue to serve as a powerful reminder of the importance of liberty, justice, and equality for all people, regardless of gender.
